JAPANESE GARDENS

The classic Japanese garden is an artificial garden that reproduces natural scenic beauty in a heightened intensity. Its charm lies in its subtle, highly sophisticated layout in a limited space. The aim of Japanese landscape gardening, which has a long history of development, is to create a scenic composition by arranging rocks, trees, shrubs and running water in such a way as to create the sweep of a vast landscape.

Japanese gardens are usually referred to as the "hill garden" ("tsukiyama") and the "waterless stream garden" ("karesansui"). The hill garden features a hill usually combined with a pond and a stream. It can be viewed from various vantage points, as you stroll along the paths, or appreciate it from within a house to which it is attached. Fine specimens of this style are the gardens of Tenryuji Temple and Saihoji Temple, both in Kyoto. In the dry landscape garden, rocks and sand form the main elements, the sea being symbolized not by water but by a layer of sand with furrows suggestive of the rippling movement, and waterfalls by an arrangement of rocks. Examples of this style are the gardens of Ryoanji Temple and Daitokuji Temple, also in Kyoto.

With the introduction of the tea ceremony in the 14th century, the chaniwa (garden attached to the tea-ceremony house) came to be designed and laid out. Actually, it is not a garden but a narrow path leading up to the chashitsu (tearoom proper). The aim of the designer of this style was to create a feeling of solitude and detachment from the world. A tea garden is mainly featured by the placement of stepping stones.

* Listed in this leaflet are Japan's principal gardens in Kyoto, Tokyo and other areas.

* Most of the tea gardens are not open to the public.

* The gardens are mostly closed from Dec. 28 to Jan. 4.

* Ticket windows are usually closed 30 min. or 1 hr. before closing time.

- ④ Ryoanji Temple (龍安寺): Dry garden constructed in the 15th c. Noted for stone arrangements in a rectangular space of white sand. A world cultural heritage site. With the ultimate beauty in its simplest form, removing everything that is unnecessary, you are able to actually experience the thoughts of Zen Buddhism, facing the garden and rejecting any superfluous explanations. Addr.: Goryonoshitamachi, Ryoanji, Ukyo-ku, Kyoto. Near Ryoanji-michi Bus Stop. Open: 8:00-17:00 (Mar.-Nov.); 8:30-16:30 (Dec.-Feb.). Admission: ¥500.
- ⑬ Shisendo Temple (詩仙堂): Stroll garden with running water "yari-mizu," laid out in the 17th c. by Ishikawa Jozan (1583-1672) a poet, scholar and the designer of the "sozu" or "shishi-odoshi." The occasional tapping sound of "sozu" reverberates in the tranquility of the Chinese style garden, creating a refined atmosphere. Noted for the beauty of azaleas in spring and tinted foliage in autumn. Addr.: Monguchicho, Ichijoji, Sakyo-ku, Kyoto. 10-min. walk from Ichijoji-Sagarimatsu Bus Stop. Open: 9:00-17:00. Admission: ¥500.
- ⑫ Shoren-in Temple (青蓮院): Stroll gardens constructed by Soami & Kobori Enshu in the 16th c. The straight-line shaped washbasin donated by Toyotomi Hideyoshi is a rare masterpiece. Addr.: Sanjobocho, Awataguchi, Higashiyama-ku, Kyoto. 5-min. walk from Jingu-michi Bus Stop. Open: 9:00-17:00. Admission: ¥500.
- ① Tenryuji Temple (天龍寺): Landscape garden for strolling and viewing from within a building constructed in the 14th c. The main motifs of this garden, which almost seems as though it were a landscape drawing in Indian ink, are Ryumon Falls and a stone Bridge. A landscape of mountains, rivers and the ocean is presented with a pond and the above two in the center. Ryumon is a rapid current ravine which lies on the border of China's Yungxian and Wanxian. There is a 3-tier waterfall that even fish can't go up, but there's a legend that if fish could go up the waterfall, they would become dragons. This represents the process of a zen priest attaining enlightenment after strict practice. The stone bridge is a symbol of the first step into the state of enlightenment. Addr.: Susukinobabacho, Saga Tenryuji, Ukyo-ku, Kyoto. 2-min. walk from Arashiyama Sta. on Keifuku Dentetsu Line. Open: 8:30-17:30 (-17:00 Nov.-Mar.). Admission: ¥500.

- ㊦ Tofukuji-Fundain Temple (東福寺芬陀院): Dry landscape garden laid out in the 15th c. by Sesshu (1420-1506), a famous painter. The Kame-ishi or Tortoise Stone placed in the moss-covered garden surrounded by bamboo seems almost as if it were living and about to move. Addr.: Hommachi, Higashiyama-ku, Kyoto, (in the Tofukuji Temple compound). 10-min. walk from JR (or Keihan) Tofukuji Sta. Open: 9:00-16:00. Admission: ¥300.
- ㊦ Tofukuji Hojo (Chief Abbot's Chamber) (東福寺方丈): Dry gardens in four different types rebuilt in 1939. The north garden is famous for the moss and square stones creating an Ichimatsu checkered design. The coloring of leaves are exquisitely beautiful viewed from the roofed passage called Tsutenkyo. Addr.: Hommachi, Higashiyama-ku, Kyoto, (in the Tofukuji Temple compound). 10-min. walk from JR (or Keihan) Tofukuji Sta. At present under repair. Open: 9:00-16:00. Admission: ¥400.
- ㊦ Tofukuji-Kaisando Temple (東福寺開山堂): Pond garden and dry garden, both constructed in the 18th c. The left side of the narrow passage from the entrance is an ichimatsu patterned dry landscape in the Zen Buddhist style. On the right is a pond garden in the Chikuzan fashioned samurai household study style. The two combined create an exquisite taste. Addr.: Hommachi, Higashiyama-ku, Kyoto. 10-min. walk from JR (or Keihan) Tofukuji Sta. Open: 9:00-16:30. Admission: ¥400.
- ㊦ Saihoji Temple (西芳寺): Famous as a moss temple. A world cultural heritage site. It consists of upper and lower layers of arranged rockwork, the spring pond garden on the flat ground and the dry landscape on the mountainside, creating a world of "yugen" (quiet beauty or the subtle and the profound) with its 100 or so different kinds of moss and tree groves. A landscape garden in the go-round style or boating style. Reservations are required to visit. Addr.: 56 Kamigaya-cho, Matsuo, Nishigyo-ku, Kyoto 615. 15-min. walk from Kami-Katsura Sta. on Hankyu Arashiyama Line.

Ninomaru Garden of Nagoya Castle (名古屋城二の丸庭園): Dry garden for strolling constructed in the 17th c. Four tea rooms or teahouses are dispersed in the garden, connected by stepping stone paths and with stone lanterns in between. Addr.: Hommaru, Naka-ku, Nagoya. 5-min. walk from Shiyakusho-mae Subway Sta. Open: 9:00-16:30. Admission: ¥500.

Kanazawa

Kenrokuen (兼六園): Strolling garden constructed in the 19th c. It is one of the three most beautiful landscape gardens in Japan along with Kairakuen in Mito and Korakuen in Okayama. In size, Korakuen surpasses the others, covering an area of about 10 ha. The special features are the two-legged yukimi-doro or Kotojido (snow-viewing lantern) and the "yuki-zuri" scene, where ropes are stretched from the top branches to the lower branches of trees to protect them from breaking from the weight of the snow and help them grow in a natural manner. The excellent skills and designs of the master artisan work can be found elsewhere in the arts and crafts of the garden. Addr.: 1-4 Kenrokumachi, Kanazawa, Ishikawa Pref. Near Kenrokuen-shita or Dewa-machi Bus Stop. (15 min. by bus from Kanazawa Sta.). Open: 7:00-18:00 (Mar. 1-Oct. 15), 8:00-16:30 (Oct. 16-end of Feb.). Admission: ¥300.

The Welcome Inns comprise a range of accommodations from hotels, business hotels, ryokan, minshuku and pensions to youth hostels. Most of them have guest rooms the charge for which is a modest ¥8,000 or less per night for a single room.

Reservation for Welcome Inns is available through International Tourism Center of Japan (ITCJ).

Reservation before your departure for Japan

Visit ITCJ's website at <http://www.itcj.or.jp> or JNTO's at <http://www.jnto.go.jp>. Also your request by mail, fax or e-mail is accepted and processed at ITCJ's head office. To make a reservation, simply complete the Reservation Request Form available from your nearest JNTO offices and send it to the head office at least one week ahead by e-mail or fax, or three weeks ahead of your departure from home by mail. Confirmed flight booking required for application. Especially for your first night in Japan, we accept the reservation request only when you have a firm booking on a flight arriving in Japan by no later than 7:00 p.m.

Reservation after your arrival in Japan
